DEAR GUESTS,

The Faculty of the Department of Surgery at the University of Chicago would like to warmly welcome you to the celebration of the illustrious academic career of Edwin L. Kaplan, MD. This celebration includes a one-day symposium featuring nationally and internationally renowned speakers followed by a black tie reception and dinner. Thank you for joining us for what we hope will be a memorable experience.

EDWIN L. KAPLAN, MD

Dr. Edwin L. Kaplan, an internationally recognized endocrine surgeon, grew up in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and attended undergraduate and medical schools at the University of Pennsylvania.

He was elected to Phi Beta Kappa and Alpha Omega Alpha (AOA) Honor Societies. After a rotating internship at Mount Sinai Hospital in New York City, Ed returned to the University of Pennsylvania for a residency and chief residency in surgery under the leadership of Dr. Jonathan Rhoads. He then spent a fellowship in endocrine research at the Mayo Clinic with Dr. Claude Arnaud where he worked on early studies of a calcitonin immunoassay and on the purification of parathyroid hormone. In 1968 he joined Dr. Gerald Peskin, one of his former professors at Penn, at Michael Reese Hospital in Chicago, and became Assistant Professor of Surgery at the University of Chicago. In 1971 he moved to the University of Chicago Medical Center and has been there since that time. He was awarded Professor of Surgery with tenure in 1975.

Dr. Kaplan's clinical and research efforts have focused on endocrine surgery. He was a founding member and second President of the American Association of Endocrine Surgeons (AAES). In 2009 he received the AAES Oliver Cope Meritorious Achievement Award, an honor given to only five other surgeons. He has served as Governor of the American College of Surgeons and Head of its Medical Motion Picture Committee, President of the Metropolitan Chicago Chapter of the American College of Surgeons, President of the Chicago Surgical Society, Chief of Staff of the University of Chicago Medical Center, and a member of the Board of Directors of the International Association of Endocrine Surgeons. He is a member of many prestigious surgical societies, including the American Surgical Association, the Society of University Surgeons, and the International Association of Endocrine Surgeons.

Dr. Kaplan is the author of over 200 scholarly papers and the editor of three books, almost entirely devoted to topics related to endocrine surgery. He has been Visiting Professor at many institutions in the United States and around the world. Many of his former fellows hold very prestigious positions at important institutions worldwide. He has been selected nine times as a "Favorite Teacher" by students of the Pritzker School of Medicine, and recently received a "Favorite Teacher Award" by the Chief Residents in the Department of Surgery at the University of Chicago. He has been listed among the Best Doctors of America.

His greatest joys and accomplishments, however, are his wife, Sara, and his children and grandchildren, Dr. Abe, Sharone, Traci, Ariel, and Aidan.

DESCRIPTION

Endocrine Diseases, from hypothyroidism to Cushing's syndrome, continue to affect a significant percentage of the general population. This symposium will educate physicians on topics ranging from thyroid cancer, molecular research, video assisted thyroid surgery, minimally invasive approaches to parathyroid disorders, medicinal modalities for thyroid disease, and adrenal disorders.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

After attending this symposium, participants will be better able to:

1. Recognize the physiologic and technical challenges associated with complex endocrine disorders;
2. Describe the latest management strategies for the broad array of endocrine disorders;
3. Discuss current research initiatives in the fields of endocrine surgery and endocrinology.

ACCREDITATION AND CREDIT DESIGNATION

The University of Chicago Pritzker School of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to provide continuing medical education for physicians.
